

Framatome to hire 1,000 employees in 2021

January 13, 2021 – Framatome today announced that it expects to hire approximately 1,000 employees in 2021. These new hires will strengthen the company's international presence and technical expertise in the areas of engineering, research and development, project management, production and maintenance.

"We pay special attention to maintaining the technical skills of our Framatome team so that we are well positioned to serve the nuclear industry in France and around the world," said Jean-Luc Minard, director of Human Relations and Knowledge at Framatome. "We are proud that our success and positive outlook allow us to offer competitive and fulfilling career opportunities within the sector."

Despite the unprecedented health crisis, Framatome hired nearly 1,000 people, mostly in France, in 2020.

Framatome's more than 14,000 employees worldwide are committed to strengthening the company's presence in civil and defense nuclear, and supporting customers in supplying clean, low-carbon energy.
